Item 2. Relationships and Services

What investment services and advice can you provide me?

We are primarily a Private Placement Investment Banking broker-dealer. We provide capital raising assistance to our clients, primarily private companies and private funds. We introduce our clients to financial entities, family offices and pre-qualified accredited investors. We also provide financial advisory services and assistance on corporate matters and introduce prospective customers to an unaffiliated registered investment advisory firm. Investments in Private Placements involve significant risks and are not suitable for many retail investors. We are not responsible for an investor's final investment decision in a Private Placement or private fund. We also provide a limited selection of variable annuity products.

Brokerage Services: (i) We refer our client's Private Placement investment opportunities to pre-qualified investors. Private placement offerings include companies seeking to raise capital for expansion, Hedge funds, private equity/debt funds, joint ventures and unregistered pooled investments. We do not have a customer relationship with an investor solely by virtue of making an introduction. (ii) We provide financial advice on capital raising efforts and assistance on corporate matters. (iii) We introduce potential clients seeking investment advisory services to an unaffiliated registered investment advisor. (iv) We do offer a limited selection of variable products. (v) We do not have discretionary trading authority or provide periodic monitoring of the performance of any investment. (vi) We do not distribute any proprietary products.

Item 3. Fees, Costs, Conflicts and Standard of Conduct

What fees will I pay?

- We do not charge investors any fees when we refer them to a Private Placement.
- Each Private Placement has its own organizational, offering, operating, and administrative expenses. Investors in a Private Placement bear such expenses indirectly in proportion to their investments.
- We will negotiate a compensation fee with institutional investors for referrals to select Private Placement investment opportunities.
- When we provide financial advice and assistance on corporate matters, you may pay a retainer, incur fees for advice and pay expense reimbursements.
- You typically do not pay a commission or sales charge when you purchase a variable insurance product, but the insurance company issuing the product will pay us a commission. Also, you may pay a surrender charge to the insurer when you surrender or withdraw funds from your variable product. The commissions paid by the insurer are typically factored into the ongoing fees and costs of the product, which include the mortality and expense risk charge, administrative fees, rider charges and cost of insurance charges. In addition, the contract value of your variable insurance product will bear the fees and costs of the mutual funds in which your contract value is invested. These fees are described in detail in a prospectus or other offering document that you receive when you purchase an investment.

Description of Other Fees and Costs: Private placement offerings may have substantial and multiple level fees and expenses. Details regarding these fees and costs are disclosed in the offering documents.

Additional Information: You will pay fees and costs whether you make or lose money on your investments. Fees and costs will reduce any amount of money you make on your investments over time. Please make sure you understand what fees and costs you are paying. Please refer to the applicable offering memorandum and any transaction-related documents for detailed fee and cost information.

Conversation Starter • Ask your financial professional: Help me understand how these fees and costs might affect my investments. If I give you $10,000 to invest, how much will go to fees and costs, and how much will be invested for me?

What are your legal obligations to me when providing recommendations? How else does your firm make money and what conflicts of interest do you have?

When we provide you with a recommendation, we have to act in your best interest and not put our interest ahead of yours. At the same time, the way we make money creates some conflicts with your interests. You should understand and ask us about these conflicts because they can affect the recommendations we provide you. We expect that you will exercise independent judgment in making investment decisions. We cannot fully assess a qualified investor's suitability and therefore are not necessarily acting in their best interest. The way we make money creates some conflicts with your interests. You should understand and ask us about these conflicts because they can affect the services we provide you. Here are some examples to help you understand what this means.

- When we act as a referral agent, the Private Placement offering pays us referral fees, a transaction-based compensation, for a qualified investor's capital commitment. We benefit when you invest with our clients.
- In securities transactions in which you participate, we typically represent the issuer and/or other applicable parties, who will have different interests than yours.
- We may receive a portion of a Third-Party Fund's management and performance fees.
- When we make a successful introduction of a prospective client to an unaffiliated registered investment advisory firm, we are paid a portion of the investment advisory fee.
- When we provide financial advice or assistance on mergers, acquisitions, or other corporate matters we may negotiate fees, expense reimbursements and a retainer.
- When we sell you a variable insurance product, the commission we receive comes from the issuer of the investment (such as an insurance company) and their sponsors or managers rather than directly from you, and this is often referred to as "third-party payments". Also, the amount of compensation we receive is set by the issuer or sponsor, and varies among the issuers, the different categories of investments we offer, as well as the different types of investments within a particular category of investment. These variables create an incentive for us to sell you the investments that pay us more compensation.

How do your financial professionals make money?

Our team of Registered Representatives are paid commissions and fees linked to a capital commitment and/or the performance of a fund. When we are engaged in providing financial advice and assistance on corporate matters, our Registered Representatives may receive a retainer, negotiated fees plus expense reimbursements. When we sell you a variable annuity the insurance company issuing the product will pay us a commission.
